BUDDY BONDS

That can be counted in the Fourth War Loan drive.

TOTALS LISTED

As of this morning, the Victory House had sold 3,140 bonds for buddies. Of these, 1,569 purchases designated names of men or women on the honor roll while 1,571 were left for the women's division to designate. Outside sources sold 945 bonds, including 527 designating names and 418 not designated in addition to the 4,085 bonds, a number of others have been sold but official reports on them had not yet come in this morning. However, Mrs. Gorman said she had received unofficial reports of sales that will push the total up around the 5,000 mark, which will star every name and have several hundred to spare.

She declined public response to the drive has been splendid and that success was made possible only by the cooperation of hundreds of persons.

The blue stars will be left on the board for a few weeks, and then the board, as previously planned, will be washed and the stars removed. Gold stars for those whose lives were given in service will be the only ones left on the board permanently, drive officials said. The honor roll is under the supervision of a committee headed by James R. Smith.

Aided E Bond Sale

Drive officials today emphasized that the Buddy Bond campaign, along with the special war bond show at the Palace theater, the school Treasure Hunt and other campaign features, all were designed to sell "extra" bonds, over and above the purchases that Marion county residents originally intended to make in the Fourth War Loan. They pointed out that the county has cleared its E bond quota by a comparatively narrow margin although the grand total of all donormalities is well beyond the county quota.

Special events to push the sale of the "extra" bonds were believed necessary to bring the total up to its quota, and that is why those drives were not brought into the campaign until well bonds had been made in the early stages of the campaign. "I say said, 'It took the combined total of the sales made by the canvassing organization plus the proceeds of these special events to put the county over the top in E bonds.' Robert E. White, drive chairman, pointed out.

SONA FENTER'S

What happens when your hat comes down?

SOMEDAY, a group of grim-faced men will walk stiffly into a room, sit down at a table, sign a piece of paper—and the War will be over.

That'll be quite a day. It doesn't take much imagination to picture the way the hats will be tossed into the air all over America on that day.

But what about the day after?

What happens when the tumult and the shouting have died, and all of us turn back to the job of actually making this country the wonderful place we've dreamed it would be "after the War"?

No man knows just what's going to happen then. But we know one thing that must not happen:

We must not have a postwar America fumbling to restore an out-of-gear economy, staggering under a burden of idle factories and idle men, wracked with internal dissension and stricken with poverty and want.

We must not have breadlines and vacant farms and jobless, tired men in Army overcoats tramping city streets.

That is why we must buy War Bonds—now

For every time you buy a Bond, you not only help finance the War. You help to build up a vast reserve of postwar buying power. Buying power that can mean millions of postwar jobs making billions of dollars' worth of postwar goods and a healthy, prosperous, strong America in which there'll be a richer, happier living for every one of us.

To protect your Country, your family, and your job after the War—buy War Bonds now!

Let's all KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK!

Mr. Churchill's Invasion Hints

THE German radio was first to point out after Prime Minister Churchill's report in the house of commons that he seemed to be preparing the British public for postponement of invasion of western Europe until fall.

Mr. Churchill took pains to discourage hope of decision in the war with Germany during 1944. A strong advocate of the full use of air power, he declared that it constituted at present the chief offensive action against Germany and would continue to grow in power throughout the spring and summer.

He spoke of German installations on the French shore as "new means of attack," rather than as works of defense, and speculated on what Germany's plight might be when its aviation has been knocked out and Allied bombers could fly over its territory restricted by nothing but anti-aircraft fire.

Referring to land action in Italy, he explained that it occupied a large number of German troops. "We must fight the Germans somewhere in this war unless we are to stand still and watch the Russians," he declared. And he warned specifically of an increased tempo of German offensive action against Britain in the air.

In Washington, when asked by a questioner at his news conference what he thought of Mr. Churchill's statement that the end of the war with Germany was not in sight this year, President Roosevelt replied that he had been saying the same thing for several years and wished people in this country would pay more attention to what was said to them by responsible sources.

In other words, in the last week of February, 1944, the two most responsible sources in the Allied high command are telling their countrymen not to expect the end of the war with Germany in 1944 and implying that the long-awaited invasion of western Europe may have to be awaited still longer.

Tax-Spend-Elect Cycle

THE tax-spend-elect cycle has been threatened at the source of its motive power by the executive-legislative clash over the revenue bill.

By asserting its constitutional authority to make its own decisions on taxes, congress has tossed a monkey wrench into the New Deal theory of unlimited spending. While nothing has been done directly to affect the companion theory of unlimited debt expansion, even the unlimited spenders must admit that whenever congress gets cold feet on taxes their jig is up; they cannot maintain the doctrine without a continuously rising tax income.

They must recognize, furthermore, that whenever congress begins to think about saving money, instead of spending money, their philosophy of a more abundant life through profligacy is challenged. There is much more to the clash over the revenue bill than a mere technical disagreement over figures. It is barely possible that they are being confronted belatedly with a healthy skepticism of their unorthodox financial practices.

It is certain to dawn on a great many small taxpayers as they compare the not insubstantial increases under a revenue bill which the administration says is too small with the increases which would have resulted from a bill acceptable to the administration that the piper who plays the tax-spend-elect tune no longer is being paid by corporations and wealthy individuals. It is even possible that small taxpayers may begin to comprehend that even a war does not constitute a blanket excuse for spending public money — their money — recklessly.

The tax-spend-elect minority, with its tricky economic theorists working tirelessly to justify its actions, first in the depression, now in wartime, has had things pretty much its own way. But it never faced the hazard before of a congress which refused flatly to give it what it wanted. For the first time in a decade of tax-spend-electing it is being opposed at the beginning of the cycle—the taxing.

Relief Promised

STEPS taken to ease the shortage of essential garments for children, which was reported in 40 states by American Home Economics association after a survey made from last Dec. 26 to Jan. 15, will be studied by the association in a second survey of civilian scarcities starting March 15.

Donald Nelson, war production board chairman, suggesting the new survey, has said that the official steps taken after the first survey should bring relief to the buying public in shortage areas by March 15. The association's fact-finding, therefore, will be aimed at checking results.

There probably is no war topic discussed more regularly or with more vigor in families with small children than the problem of keeping them clothed. Not only have many essential garments been impossible to find, but many of the garments that could be found proved to be of unsatisfactory quality, they could not withstand the kind of wear children give their clothing. While many civilian complaints about wartime inconveniences are just that—complaints about inconveniences—the availability of warm clothing for children is vastly more than a convenience.

Allied Invasion Chief

Eisenhower One of Army's Most Brilliant Strategists.

GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, 52, charged with conducting what probably will prove the biggest military undertaking in history, is known as one of the most brilliant strategists of the United States army. He met the test of those who placed full confidence in him by waging the successful campaign which put allied troops ashore in Italy after driving the Axis from North Africa.

A graduate of the military academy at West Point, Gen. Eisenhower experienced a meteoric rise in rank following America's entry in the war by virtue of his ability as an organizer. Two months before Pearl Harbor he was promoted to lieutenant colonel and to brigadier general. He went to London as first commander of U. S. forces in the European Theater of Operations in the summer of 1942 as a lieutenant general. When he took command of the Allied campaign in North Africa he was given the rank of full general.

"General Ike," as he is known to the army, is a tank expert, and chief among his attributes is his ability to get things done. He has had a long association with another great American general, Douglas MacArthur, and with the latter organized the defenses of the Philippines. His work there as aide to MacArthur was his first real contribution in this war and the plans made by Gen. Eisenhower are credited with enabling Gen. MacArthur's forces to hold out against the Japanese for the lengthy period they did.

Gen. Eisenhower, then colonel, was Gen. MacArthur's aide when the present supreme commander in the southwest Pacific was made Army Chief of Staff in Washington. When Gen. MacArthur moved to the Philippines as military advisor, he took Gen. Eisenhower with him.

Gen. Eisenhower returned to the United States just before America went to war and had much to do with the building of the present army. He became Chief of the War Plans Division, in which capacity he was responsible for formulating the pattern for a nation engaged in total war.

Reared on a Farm

When called to Washington by Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall to take the War Plans Division job, Gen. Eisenhower was Chief of Staff of the Third Division at Fort Lewis, Wash. He was reared on a Kansas farm and always wanted to be a Navy man. When he applied for admission to Annapolis he had reached the top age limit of 20 and took the alternative course of going to West Point, where he was within the age limit. He was graduated from the military academy in 1915 and shortly thereafter his interest in tanks began.

Eisenhower studied ordnance in general and tanks in particular. In this field he became commanding officer of the Tank Corps Training Center at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., during the last war, although he saw no overseas duty. For his accomplishments he won the Distinguished Service Medal. The citation said he had "displayed unusual zeal, foresight and marked administrative ability in the organization, training and preparation for overseas service of technical troops of the Tank Corps."

Heads a Huge Army

Gen. Eisenhower's first overseas appointment in this war as commander of American forces in the European theater was comparable to the post assigned Gen. John J. Pershing, who commanded the American Expeditionary Force in the last war. A vast difference lay, however, in the fact that at the time Gen. Pershing went across the American army consisted of 230,000 men, while Gen. Eisenhower knew that by the end of the year in which he was sent to London the U. S. Army would total 4,500,000 men and continue to grow.

He relinquished the European command to direct the North African operations and the subsequent drive into Italy. His success in the Mediterranean as supreme commander won him the plaudits of the United Nations and when the chiefs of the Allied command met to decide on a supreme director for the gigantic task of carrying the fight into Germany Gen. Eisenhower was given the post. He returned to London in January of this year for the first time since he saw Allied troops into Africa in November of 1942 to find preparations for the major task of the war—mass invasion of the continent of Europe—well advanced.

Gen. Eisenhower is described by those who have had any connection with him as one of the most likable men they have ever known. He is tough only when he has to be. When there is work to be done he becomes a man of quick incisive action and plunges headlong into the job.

Genius in Exile Proves Boon To U. S.

Famed Refugees Sparkle in Universities, Laboratories and Art.

ALFRED EINSTEIN

By ADELAIDE KERR Associated Press Writer

AMERICANS were free with predictions, when the flood of European refugees started to flow to these shores, that the cultural life of the country would benefit by it.

Few realized just how great this benefit would be.

A new survey shows that at least nine Nobel prize winners and many less known scientists, painters and writers are now living — and working — in this country. Some of the famous refugees have given original manuscripts and art works to the United States Treasury to be disposed of in promoting the sale of war bonds. Others are contributing scientific knowledge to the war effort or doing creative work. Still others are teaching in American universities.

The work of the nine Nobel prize winners is in many fields. Alfred Einstein, the famous German physicist, who evolved the theory of relativity, lives in Princeton, N. J., where he is on the faculty of the Institute for Advanced Study. He is now a United States citizen and several times has been called into consultation by the government on war projects.

Thomas Mann, the German-born author, who lives in Pacific Palisades, Calif., has a new book — the fourth in the Joseph series — ready for publication early this year. Since Sigrid Undset, the Norwegian Nobel prize winner, sought refuge in this country, after her writings aroused the Nazis' ire, she has turned out three books — "Christmas and Twelfth Night," "Return to the Future" and "Happy Times in Norway."

Count Maurice Maeterlinck, now past 80, has also been working hard, since he left his beautiful Mediterranean villa to make headquarters in a New York hotel. The Belgian-born poet dramatist, who gave the world "The Bluebird," has turned out a number of plays, none of which has yet been presented, and several books, published in French.

Add to that list of Nobel prize winners the German physicist, Professor James Franck, known for his atom smashing experiments, who is now teaching at the University of Chicago. Cornell University has the well-known Dutch chemist, Peter Debye, whose discoveries helped produce rayon, synthetic rubber and high octane gas. He is now deep in research at the university's department of chemistry, of which he is chairman.

Otto Loewi, the Austrian physiologist, is conducting experiments at New York university on the functions of the heart and kidneys. Victor Frank Hess, who discovered the cosmic origin of cosmic rays, is experimenting at Fordham university, New York. And Enrico Fermi, the Italian physicist who was awarded the coveted Nobel prize for the discovery of radio active substances, is on leave from Columbia University to do war research.

The war has given other American universities the opportunity to add famous European scientists to their teaching staffs. The University of Michigan has Kasimir Fajans, the Polish physicist and former director of the Institute of Physical Chemistry.

Harvard university's staff includes Dr. Heinrich Bruecking, former chancellor of the German Reich, who fled Germany after friends learned he was slated to be a victim of the notorious Nazi "blood purge" in 1934. Taft university has the services of Kurt Goldstein, the German physicist and neurologist, and the University of California has Dr. Richard Goldschmidt, the German geneticist and former director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Biology in Berlin. In addition the National Refugee Service says it has placed 1,500 doctors in vital medical posts.

Neen To Cultural Life

Musicians who sought refuge in this country, have also made an appreciable contribution to America's cultural life. Heading the list is the famous Italian, Arturo Toscanini, who conducted the NBC Symphony orchestra for several years. Recently the maestro, who is said to have turned down a Hollywood offer of $250,000, made a motion picture "Hymn of the Nation" for the United States government.

Other foreign musicians have delighted music lovers all over the country. Lotte Lehmann, the German-born soprano, and Stella Roman, the Rumanian soprano, are both warbling at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Concert-goers in various parts of the country have heard Robert Casadesu, the French pianist. Advanced music students at Mills college, Oakland, Calif., are being put through their paces by Darius Milhaud, French composer and conductor. And Broadway theater-goers have heard the work of the German composer, Kurt Weill, in the collecting rhythms of "One Touch of Venus."

Broadway has another refugee star in Elizabeth Bergner, the Austrian actress, now appearing in "The Two Mrs. Carrrolls." Two more famous European women French journalist, Genevieve Tabouis, edits the weekly Pour La Victoire and Toni Sender, a former member of the German Reichstag, is writing and lecturing in this country. Some of Europe's most famous painters have turned out work inspired by the American scene. Max Ernst, the German surrealist, spent last summer in Arizona and his new canvases, due for New York exhibition in April, have qualities which suggest the strong Arizona light. The Polish modern, Marc Chagall, made a trip to Mexico with the Ballet Theater and designed sets for the Ballet "Alecko" which the theater used later in its production. Other painters, including Tamara Lempicka, the Polish artist, and Andre Masson, the French surrealist, have exhibited their work in New York.

OPA's Black Market Blues

By Jack Stinnett.

WASHINGTON—The Office of Price Administration has the black market blues. Fear of the spread of this kind of wartime racketeering colors almost every decision OPA makes.

Few realize it, but not since the days of bootlegging has racketeering been so widespread as it is today in the black markets. The authority for this is none other than FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. Although careful to point out that there actually were fewer crimes last year than previously, Hoover emphasizes that the types of crime are changing. Gangs are on the upswing for the first time since repeal, and the ordinarily law-abiding public is cooperating with them. Both Hoover and OPA Director Chester Bowles point out that black markets couldn't exist without cooperation of the public.

Revealing Report

Bowles' report on the black market activities last year is revealing. Although OPA has less than 3,000 investigators—not even an average of one a county—it investigated 850,000 cases of alleged violations last year. The No. 1 black market headache is, of course, gasoline. Last year almost half of the black market convictions were for illegal dealings in gasoline or gas ration coupons. OPA estimates that almost 2,500,000 gallons of gas are being moved by black marketeers and that if the racket could be stopped, every driver in the United States would have enough gas to travel 45 additional miles a month.

But Hoover warns that the liquor black market may surpass all others unless the trend can be curbed. The old gang methods of highjacking liquor stores by the truckload, robbing warehouses, and selling out and bootleg liquor at exorbitant prices, are with us again. Even speakeasies are back in some sections, but now they are called "cheat joints." Authorities believe that only the rationing of sugar and the difficulty in obtaining metals for stills has prevented illegal distilling at least on a scale comparable to the earlier days of prohibition.

There Are Others

Other commodities are also included. A black market in oranges was smashed in New York City, where the racketeers had upped the price to $1 a dozen. Washington had a black market in potatoes (as did other cities) that had the congressmen stewing. Here, as elsewhere, we also have seen a black market in onions.

Practically nationwide have been the black markets in meats. The illegal market in nylon hosiery that has upped the retail price to between $4 and $5 a pair.

"The one in the mink is the maid!"

John Tyler

Our Faithful Hibiscus Island Caretaker Is Just As Reliable As Ever—Somewhere in Pacific

By DAMON RUNYON

"SOMEWHERE in the Pacific" the letter the familiar scrawl is headed. "The scenery is nice. I really did enjoy the trip. I did not get seasick. Everything very beautiful over here."

John Tyler, my old caretaker, is in the vases, thousands of miles removed from the white house on the little white island in the Pacific bay, down in Dade county, Fla., where he spent nearly 10 years of his life.

His superb calm is no more disturbed by a new environment than it was by back-breaking labor, his clear, headless, and his matter-of-factness remains the same. It was the day the newspapers were full of the big blow reported moving on Dade county and he was unmoved, "Storm passed by."

"The scenery is really nice," observe: John Tyler is not a casual tourist, heedless of his surroundings like so many persons who travel far and see little. I appreciate his ungrudging tribute to the scenery, knowing that he is making it in his mind's eye against the lovely landscape of his homeland. You will see that John Tyler is essentially a fair man.

HE was in Texas undergoing training for months. It was a little cold, a little dry for him there. He remarked on the temperature without disparagement and on the day in mild wonder. Dusk is an unknown quantity on Hibiscus Island down in Dade county, Fla. He seemed to accept the army curriculum serenely.

I cannot speak of his awareness of the reasons for the war, but this he knew: That there is a job to be done and John Tyler is a man who always does a job well.

There he is, "somewhere in the Pacific," a member of one of those hard working corps of men out in a new world, a new life, busy far from entertaining any misgivings for the future or indulging excitement or agitation which I know I could not repress, he says: "When you write Luluabe again I sure I will be a good idea to have her something to clean and grease all the tools keep them from getting rusty and have to hot water heater emptied because it will rust inside if it is not used in a long time."

Luluabe is his deputy in his absence. Instructions relate to small affairs at the little white house on Hibiscus Island. I doubt it in his situation my mind would turn to commonplace of that nature. I doubt that train of thoughts would remain as methodical and as confident as that of this simple man.

OUR other soldier of Hibiscus, "Horse Tamer Burke," is back home again, his spirit as high as ever but his body a bit battered. "Horse" went to North Africa, also with engineers, and was returned a few months ago physically knocked out, partly from injury sustained in camp before going overseas. He was recently discharged from army and entered a hospital in Baltimore for an operation.

The tragedy of his situation was the that he had to miss the race meetings at Tropical Park and Hialeah down in Dade county, Fla. He writes that he has perfected a system for beating the horses that can miss.

I hope and trust that it is as good as old system that we sometimes used when we could not pick them any other way and sorted to the "cane meenie minnie" method.

Believe me, that is as good as any other system. (Copyright, 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Who's Crazy?

By Truman Twell

Don't take it seriously when you read in newspaper that psychiatrists say you are crazy for singing "mazy dots, lamzey diva." Certainly you are crazy but no crazier than we.

At least no crazier than when you went stare at the marathon dancers falling over each other, at the endurance champions sitting trees and on the top of flagpoles, or that half who buried himself alive and charged the of halfwits a small fee to look down through a hole at him lying in a coffin.

And no crazier than when you wait till last minute before rushing to get under deadline, or put off your income tax till final day, or maybe yield to the temptation hanging ball fringe curtains at the window of your automobile. You're just part of the crazy American public.

It is the public that votes for Huey Long stands in line for a chance to spend more wears campaign buttons and buys freak bread containing phony frankfurters on springs will pop out and show a surprised reader "it to raise a dog."

It is the public that elbowed each other of the way to buy bell bottom pants, blarney Princess Eugenie hats, choker collars, bust artificial beauty marks, colored lacquer for nails and "rats" for the hair.

It is the same public that gaped at the Klux Klan, took up chain letters, believed peace through disarmament, thought prospective had come to stay forever in the mad 20's and being carried away by the fat 40's.

It is the public that bumbled through prohibition and now stands in line at liquor stores the public that went for a ride with Alvin Karpis, the public that flocked to hear Billy Sunday; the public that thought civilization had come when everybody with the p of the down payment could buy an electric refrigerator.

It is the public that has sung all the nut songs of the past, read all the nut books, worn the nut clothes, visited the nut places, read the nut jokes, mulled over the nut and reached all the nut conclusions.

It is also the public that has been responsible for everything that was a shade or two as plain nuttiness—the only public there is, and some of us get a kick out of roaring "mazy dots, lamzey diva" whose business is it if a way? You should try it in the bathtub bro! You, too, sister. At least it's harmless! which is more than can be said of most of nut stuff they keep us busy doing year in and year out.

So They Say—

In our most intelligent hours we know in any situation, to jump a whole group, or nation in an inconclusive prejudice is insane as it is un-Christian.—Rev. Dr. H. Emerson Fosdick in New York.

Military operations may cease no less suddenly than they began, and we would not be so unprepared for peace as we were for war.—Dr. Everett Case, president College of William and Mary.

No! The more of those bandy-legged babies know are downed, the quicker I'm gonna back to my wife for good.—Marine Capt. Harry R. Spears in South Pacific, on whether marines are more cautious than unmarried pilots.

Piles Are Never 'Mild'

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only positive cure. This can be done without knife, drugs or loss of time from work.

PREINDUCTION TEST CALLS TO SPEED UP

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 22.—Ohio's call for preinduction physical examinations probably will be enlarged as a result of a presidential order for all draft boards to review all deferments. State selective service board directors were called today, despite a farm laborers' warning that the order might mean a loss of 100,000 jobs. The order was issued by the War Relocation Authority. It called for a review of all deferments. The order was issued by the War Relocation Authority. It called for a review of all deferments.

OHIO STATE LEAGUE GETS OFFICIAL OK

Qualified for 1944 Season by Association Action.

The Ohio State Baseball League was officially qualified today to operate during the 1944 season. The league, which was organized last year, was given its official status by the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. The league consists of six teams: Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Louisville, and St. Louis. The league was formed by the merger of the Ohio State League and the American Association. The league is expected to start play in the spring of 1944.

The league qualified for operation with Zanesville, Marion, Springfield, and Middletown as members. Newark and Lima were included when the league reorganized here two weeks ago but the league was not sent in to national headquarters because neither city has a major league affiliation. Joe Donnelly, president of the Ohio State League, said that the money was sent in only for the four cities because it was necessary to have four cities to make the league a reality. The league is expected to start play in the spring of 1944.

DRAFT DEFICIT

of these men must be qualified for combat service. He added the present standards for general service produce a quality of men lower than desirable, but this situation has been met by careful attention to personnel assignment. "Even so," he continued, "during the period from Pearl Harbor to October 31, 1943, 47,000 enlisted men were discharged from the army because of physical or mental reasons." He said not more than 10 percent of the army's strength can be composed of men who meet only present standards for limited service. He said there was a decreasing number of assignments available for limited service men since many Army units have completed training and are now moving overseas. The chief of the naval personnel, Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, reported that since Pearl Harbor, the Navy has progressively been forced to acquiesce in lowered physical standards in order to obtain the number of men it requires. "The peculiar conditions and requirements of naval life at sea will always make it imperative that personnel be of the highest physical qualifications available." General Hershey said the principal cause for rejection of those in 4-F group have been mental disease, educational deficiency, syphilis, musculoskeletal conditions and cardiovascular defects. He said a review of the whole 4-F group would be made, but did not expect more than eight percent would be found fit for general service. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, discussing the possible effects of current requirements for post-service benefits, said any lowering of present physical standards could be expected to increase the admission rate to veterans institutions.

2-DAY BROTHERHOOD MEETING CONCLUDED

114 at Banquet of Albright Group; Professor Speaks.

The closing session of the two-day annual congress of the Albright Brotherhood, Ohio Conference of the Evangelical church, was held Sunday afternoon in Calvary Evangelical church here with Prof. C. J. Atig of North Central college, Naperville, Ill., giving the address. His subject was "Principles Underlying Permanent Peace in a New Christian World Order."

The general thesis of his talk was based on the teaching of Christ. "He that saveth his life shall lose it, but whosoever loseth his life for my sake shall save it." In the Sunday morning service, Rev. W. K. Clymer of Long Island presented the subject "With Simplicity of Eye" declaring Christians must be willing to put Christ above all, making the primary purpose of life "the winning of souls through evangelism for Christ's kingdom."

One hundred and fourteen men were present for the fellowship banquet in the First Evangelical and Reformed church dining room Saturday night. Prof. Atig was the speaker, talking on "Who Are These Japanese Anyway?" He pointed out that the greatest danger to a nation, historically speaking, does not come from without, but when there comes a moral crumbling from within. Men of First United Brethren church were guests. J. W. Baker was toastmaster. Music was presented by the Men's chorus and by the choir of Calvary church under the direction of Homer Huffman.

In the Sunday school hour Sunday morning Mr. Huffman presented violin solo accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Baker.

PHYSICIAN TESTIFIES IN TRIAL OF FATHER

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Feb. 28.—Dr. George P. Hunt, white-haired pediatrician who gave immunizing inoculations for diphtheria and whooping cough to the mentally deficient infant son of John F. Noxon, Jr., on the day the child was electrocuted last September, takes the witness stand in Berkshire superior court again today as the murder trial of the socially prominent attorney goes into its fourth day.

The physician testified on Friday that the child was of the mongoloid type, was retarded in activity and did not manifest muscular movements of a normal type. On Sept. 22, he administered the injections to six-month-old Lawrence, when Mr. Noxon brought the child to the doctor's office.

A few hours later, the child was electrocuted in the book room of the Noxon home. The state contends the baby's father deliberately caused a current of electricity to pass through the child's body. Noxon has maintained that the baby had become entangled in a trolley light cord while the father was out of the room to get tools to fix a radio.

GREATEST CONVOY CROSSES ATLANTIC

LONDON, Feb. 28.—U. S. forces moving in Britain for an invasion of western Europe has been strengthened by arrival of one of the largest convoys of American troops ever to cross the Atlantic in one convoy.

The convoy was made up of a single attack by enemy submarines, but heavy storms caused some discomfort among the men. The number of troops landed in all was a military secret, but all are highly trained and ready for combat. They included mechanized units and specialized troops of many types. All were fully equipped with the latest weapons.

In addition the convoy carried many planes of various types. Immediately upon disembarking the troops were dispersed to various parts of the United Kingdom to the other.

John A. Morrison, Associated Press correspondent who traveled with the convoy, said the trip was uneventful, — a pleasure jaunt compared to a convoy crossing he made two years ago. He recalled that on that trip escorting convoys were delivered 11 depulch attacks.

"Then," he said, "we slept in our clothes and wore lifebelts and helmets the last three days. On this trip we had no underwater contacts. We slept in pajamas and wore no life belts. Helmets were not even issued except to gun crews in exposed positions."

Claridon Defeats Pleasant, 27 to 18, To Win County League Championship

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

In a game that was an outstanding example of systematic defensive basketball, Claridon outlasted Pleasant 27 to 18, in a spectacular Agosta gymnasium Saturday night to win the 1944 Marion county high school basketball tournament.

Well over 700 fans jammed into the Agosta gym, which offers the largest seating capacity of any in the county, to see A. B. Augenstein's finely-balanced Claridons add the tournament championship to the regular league title which they had won two weeks previously by defeating the same Pleasant team. It was Claridon's fourth straight victory and their fifteenth of the 1943-44 campaign against county teams. Pleasant had knocked off three tournament foes before tangle with the feared champs.

In a consolation final, which preceded the Pleasant-Claridon contest at Agosta Saturday night, LaRue ousted Kirkpatrick, 35 to 31, after four tightly-played quarters.

The two "tourney" finalists, Pleasant and Claridon, and LaRue, consolation winner and third place team in regular season, play, will represent the Marion county league in the District Class B tournament which starts at Westerville in a few days.

Recognition ceremonies for the county teams that placed at or near the top in league and tournament competition were held following Saturday night's two deciding games. The rotating league trophy, awarded annually to the loop champ, and the tournament cup went to Claridon, captain of which is Dick McGinnis. Pleasant received the tourney runner-up and reserve championship trophies. LaRue was given preference of the two balls used in the consolation and championship tourney games and Kirkpatrick was awarded the other ball.

Claridon finished strong in this year's tournament after a shaky start. The new title-holders, who succeed LaRue, 1913 league and tournament crown-wearers, beat Green Camp, 27 to 20, in a first round game, were scared by Kirkpatrick but managed a 29 to 27 win and thumped LaRue, 25 to 18, in a semi-final. Pleasant opened with a 46 to 27 conquest of Martel, beat Caledonia, 39 to 27, in a second round fray, and outscored Morral, 37 to 24, in the other semi-final tilt.

Good Defensive Play

In contrast to high-scoring North Central Ohio conference and district independent games, the tournament final presented fans with the finest sort of scholastic defensive basketball. Especially was the Claridon defense a treat to watch in action. Employing a seldom-used 1-2-2 zone set-up, Coach Augenstein's quintet made it almost impossible for Merton Porter's Pleasantmen to open with their generally powerful offense. In the third period, Pleasant couldn't break through for a point, being forced by hawk-like, glare-resembling Claridon guards to shoot from long range practically the entire session.

Pleasant's defense wasn't too porous itself but couldn't quite match the effectiveness of Claridon's. Both teams were rather deliberate in their offensive strategy and usually didn't take any unnecessary chances. Forward Dean Augenstein, Claridon sophomore, was high scorer with five baskets for 10 points. His brother, center, Allen Augenstein, who had the backboards almost entirely to himself, had nine points to share second position honors with Pleasant's capable forward, John Cusick.

Pleasant never was in the lead and never was in a tie with Claridon, which launched the game on

John Cusick started the last quarter with a good free flip. Center Selter made a gratis marker for the Townshippers and Zachman put Pleasant within eight points of the champions with a long shot. John Cusick failed on a free throw for Pleasant and Allen Augenstein and Porterfield missed free for Claridon. Dean Augenstein came back with a semi-long and Dean Cusick missed two free throws for Pleasant. Cusick made his third try from the foul line and Guard Ruth did the same for Claridon. Dean Augenstein missed a foul shot and John Cusick pushed one in for Pleasant. McGinnis made a free throw for Claridon and made Ruth put in two more for-nothing tries as Claridon attained its final count of 27. Pleasant wound up with 18 on another push-shot, a one-hander, by John Cusick. The game was over shortly after Dean Cusick missed a free try for Pleasant.

Claridon last won a double championship (league and tournament titles) in 1942.

Dennison Sets Pace

Ted Dennison, the county's leading scorer, was pace-setter for LaRue in its consolation victory over Kirkpatrick with 13 points on six baskets and a free throw. All six of Dennison's buckets were made in the last half, with his only first half point coming on a free throw in the second quarter. Hord, Kirkpatrick forward, totaled 10 points to lead his team. He had five baskets.

LaRue held a comfortable lead until the second half when about half spent. Kirkpatrick, coached by W. E. Harrington, approached within two points of Den Burton's LaRueans, 15 to 11, at that stage, on a basket by Richard Frank. The half ended with LaRue in front, 18 to 15. Kirk started the second half as if they were going to upset the favored Burtons as Hord made successive baskets to put Kirk ahead, 19 to 18. Forward Kelly put in a free throw and Kirk's margin was extended to two points. Wilson sank a bucket to put LaRue in a tie and the favorites went ahead for keeps on a charity toss by Center Jones.

In consolation semi-finals Saturday afternoon at Claridon, Kirkpatrick bested Prospect, 50 to 37, and LaRue beat Morral, second place club during the season, 44 to 33. Kelly was high for Kirk with 18 points on seven shots. Prospect's reserves won the county reserve tournament Friday with a 32 to 25 triumph over the Salem Junior Varsity. W. Osborne and Freshour each hit the basket for nine points for the winners and Salem was paced by Center Omens who notched 16 markers.

Harvester Qualifies For District Cage Tourney

Harvester qualified for the District Class B tournament to be held at Bascom this week by defeating Nevada, 40 to 32, in the consolation final of the Wyandot County basketball tourney Friday night. Sheaffer, a forward, led Harvester's attack with 12 points and W. Geiber collected 11 for the losers. It was the seventeenth 1913-44 victory against five defeats for Kenny Somerlot's Harvester club.

Harvester's reserves won the county reserve tournament Friday with a 32 to 25 triumph over the Salem Junior Varsity. W. Osborne and Freshour each hit the basket for nine points for the winners and Salem was paced by Center Omens who notched 16 markers.

Coaches Pick "All-County" Court Teams

Four teams—Claridon, new league and tournament champ, Pleasant, Morral, and Kirkpatrick—dominated selections in the 1944 coaches' all-Marion county basketball squad chosen last week and announced today.

Claridon and Kirkpatrick, which reached the consolation finals in the tournament completed Saturday night, each placed four players on the squad and Pleasant and Morral landed three apiece. Pleasant and LaRue were the only teams to place more than one player on the first team. Kirkpatrick did not have a man on the first team but was represented by two on the second outfit and the same number on the third team.

LaRue, Agosta, and Waldo each placed two men on the squad and these teams had one player each: Caledonia, Prospect, Green Camp, and Meeker. Morral was the only team that failed to place a man on the squad.

This year's mythical roster is divided into three teams of eight players each. After balloting by the county's 12 coaches was over, it was decided that fifteen teams would not be advisable since they would have left selection largely to personal opinion.

Captain of the first team is Allen Augenstein, senior center of the championship Claridon team. He was first team choice of 11 of the 12 coaches with the other mentor placing him on the second five. Ted Dennison, LaRue forward, who won the league individual scoring championship with 158 points, garnered the same number of first team votes as Augenstein, but lost out in the selection for captain since the other coach put him on the third team.

Henry Boles, Agosta center, is captain of the second team and Kinsler of Agosta and Zachman, Pleasant guard, are co-captains of the third stringers.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

A Sequel to Pitfalls of Love.

SOMETHING in Hugh Grant's glowing smile of approval at me, which saved my conscience a bit, sudden change from casual social perfunctory to persistent crisp question, gave me a familiar sense of urgency. I had felt it many times before in my work with him in government intelligence, and with a feeling of picking up threads long dropped, I gave him a reply which I hoped would be satisfactory.

"There's only one answer to that," I said, "Charlie Kent."

"Charlie Kent?" Hugh repeated slowly. "Do I know him?"

"No, I don't think you do," I said. "He was born just a few miles from here, and lived here until he was about sixteen. Then he went away to another town to work, enlisted in World War I, lost a foot, came back here, set up a taxi service and has been an institution around here ever since."

"Very interesting," Hugh said, and with sudden irritation I thought I detected an intonation which always means his impatience with foguacity. "I gather that he is trustworthy."

"When Father has to entrust anything to anyone outside the family, he uses the Pipers and Charlie Kent," I said crisply, and I saw Hugh glance at me quickly.

"No offense intended," he said with a quizzical smile, and I remembered that he always had been able to conjugate my moods and tenues with embarrassing accuracy.

"None taken," I flashed back. Plan

"Then tell me," he went on, "how can you make use of this trustworthy man? I can see you have a plan already mapped out."

I flushed at the approval in his tone, and spoke rapidly to hide the confusion which was irritating me.

"He can come past the Ticer farm on his way from the noon train coming from New York," I said. "I'll have Mrs. Ticer telephone and ask him to stop there for a minute on his way. I will be inside, and ask him to be here at two-thirty, ostensibly to take you to the three-thirty train over at Riverhead."

He actually will drive to Riverhead with the two Ticer men, muffled up in your clothing in the rear of his car, and drop a few casual remarks at a gas station where he will stop for a moment about the inconvenience of taking people to Riverhead for a train. But of course, he will bring them back again, keeping them out of view on the way back.

"When your taxi man arrives at five thirty, I shall be full of apologies, telling him that we tried to get him, but that his phone did not answer, and that you had decided to go to Riverhead, both because you would not have the inconvenience of changing at Jamaica. I shall say that when we could not get him, we called Charlie Kent, and that he took you to Riverhead."

"A very good scheme," Hugh Grantland approved. "But will he believe you about telephoning him? He might have been home all the time."

"I do not expect him to believe the telephone end of the story," I said serenely. "But he knows we always give all our taxi business to Charlie Kent, and he will think I am lying about the telephone call, because I wanted to have Charlie Kent make the extra money for the Riverhead trip instead of having him get it."

"You've thought of everything," Hugh said, and Lee Chow echoed "Everything," with a low each other down the esophagus into the stomach with each swallow of the barium mixture. They formed the usual stomach bubble, resting on top of the barium.

Then the patient was instructed to start himself off gas, and a truly startling set of manœuvres started. He seemed to start sucking and large bubbles of gas travelled down the esophagus to the stomach, distending it rapidly to quite a degree and making up as much as twice the amount of barium mixture ingested. After the fourth or fifth sucking the whole bubble was released and looked as if it gave quite a bit of satisfaction.

Such is the mechanism in the case of the average belcher. There are some rare conditions that cause accumulations of gas on the stomach—one is gallbladder trouble, one is obstruction of the outlet of the stomach from the duodenum, after which real food fermentation occurs, but this is a very rare condition. The only other way gas accumulates in the stomach without being swallowed is from the action of a Sedlitz powder.

"The treatment of the condition is obviously first the use of education to explain the mechanism of the habit. The old idea of putting a cork between the teeth after every meal is cruel and unnecessary. Instruction that swallowing properly done "by closing the lips, sucking in the cheeks and pressing the tongue against the roof of the mouth before swallowing" is too tedious. Taking five or six deep breaths when assailed with a persistent desire to "burp" is more likely to bring good results.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Air-Swallowing

IF YOU wish to be euphemistic and polite and at the same time scientific you will say that the gentleman you have just been conversing with is troubled with aerophagia. But you will not be nearly so intelligible to the average person as if you said "He burps." (It is to descend really into the language of the street, you may say—"He did quite a bit of belching.")

For most of us this aerophagia is a pleasure, even a luxury. The act is followed by a feeling of well-being. All is quiet along the equator after a good burp. And that is the healthy, normal way to regard the event. But for certain unhappy people it takes on a gloomy aspect. They burp, but they do not enjoy it. They get the idea that it is due to the fermentation of food and this means indigestion and the outlook is ominous.

Now it is comforting to know that investigations have shown that gas on the stomach is not a serious sign at all, nor an indication that the food is fermenting, or that it is not digesting properly. It is due to the habit, quite unconscious, of swallowing air. And the burp does not consist of the results of fermentation, but just plain atmosphere.

We all swallow some air with each deglutition whether it is of food, fluid or saliva. The amount accumulated after a meal or a drink expands into a bubble at the top of the food level in the stomach and is shortly and quite spontaneously "burped."

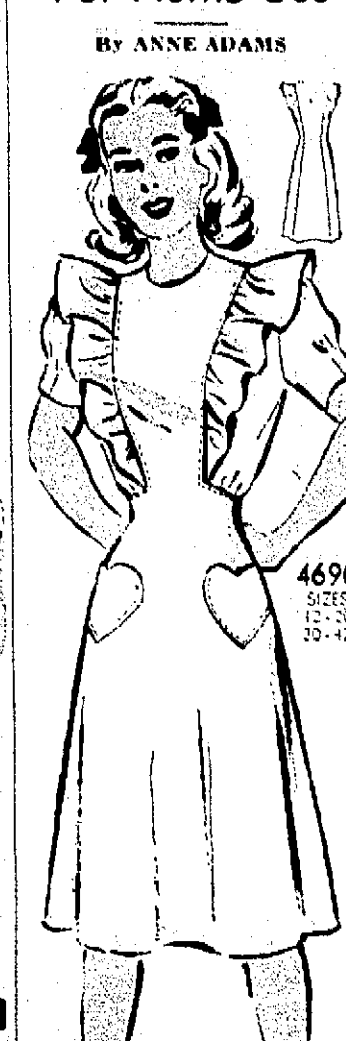

An x-ray specialist showed me a veteran belcher behind a fluorscope the other day, drinking a glass of barium. First we could see the small air bubbles that follow each other down the esophagus into the stomach with each swallow of the barium mixture. They formed the usual stomach bubble, resting on top of the barium.

Then the patient was instructed to start himself off gas, and a truly startling set of manœuvres started. He seemed to start sucking and large bubbles of gas travelled down the esophagus to the stomach, distending it rapidly to quite a degree and making up as much as twice the amount of barium mixture ingested. After the fourth or fifth sucking the whole bubble was released and looked as if it gave quite a bit of satisfaction.
